SKIN CANCER RATES CONTINUE TO INCREASE ESPECIALLY AMONG THE YOUNG

It's hard to avoid the Florida sunshine, but a local plastic surgeon warns everyone to limit exposure to the sun and to be certain that skin is protected with a sunscreen of sun protection factor (SPF) of 15 or greater.

Ben. J. Kirbo, MD, says that the practice is seeing more and more cases of melanoma, a form of skin cancer. Skin cancer is the most common form of all cancer types, and the number of skin cancers has been rising steadily for the past 30 years. He said that the incidence of non-melanoma skin cancer has been increasing especially among young women.

"Many skin cancers are the result of too much exposure to the sun's ultraviolet rays or tanning beds," said Laurence Rosenberg, MD. "When people take the necessary precautions, many skin cancers can be avoided."

Skin care is a necessity and begins with thoughtful approaches to exposure to the harmful effects of the sun. In addition to using an SPF, consideration should be given to the length of sun exposure and the wear of protective sun glasses and clothing, such as a hat.

Southeastern Plastic Surgery recognizes that many individuals, male and female, are seeking comprehensive skin care services not only for sun protection but for year around healthy skin care. Skin care services are offered at The SPA at Southeastern Plastic Surgery which has its own separate waiting area, giving individuals an easy private space for services or products. Highly trained, licensed estheticians offer services that give spa luxury and comfort with state-of-the-art medical equipment

BRIEFS

The SPA at Southeastern Plastic Surgery announces expanded hours to meet the needs of our clients. SPA appointment and skin cares services are now available weekday evenings and one Saturday each month. Work schedules and family demands make it difficult for many of our clients to see our specialist during 'normal business hours'. "It is our pleasure to meet the needs of our clients in this small way", says Victoria Reid, practice manager.
